This section starts at the down stream end of Poppleton Village. It is a renowned winter stretch as the roach shoal up in the deep water towards the end of the season. In places the river can be as deep as 25 feet and when conditions are favourable 20lb plus catches of quality roach are possible.

The venue is also capable of fishing well in the summer months as bream often shoal above the road bridge and are resident near the railway bridge.

The 'stones' fishes well with roach falling to hemp and tares in the warmer weather

For good roach bags in the winter fish a float with a long rod or a slider, using maggot for bait.
